

THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT.

VOL. XXXI.

CLOVERPORT, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1907.

8 Pages

NO. 31

DOES THE CITY COUNCIL DO THE CRAWFISH ACT?

Meet In Called Session and Say Act of Marshal In Holding Up Coal Train Was Done Without Previous Understanding.

But When Marshal DeHaven Confronts Them With Cold Facts
They Reconsider and Strike Out Resolutions Condemning Him and Content Themselves With Giving the Lie to the Newspaper Reports.

A VERBATIM REPORT OF THURSDAY NIGHT'S PROCEEDINGS.

For ways that are queer and tricks that are vain, the Cloverport City Council is peculiar.

Stand up, little four-year-old Willie. Take your finger out of your mouth and tell us the meaning of "Go ahead." The City Council of Cloverport is "up in the air" at the newspaper reports published in regard to the hold-up of the train of coal in this city by Marshal O. DeHaven on Tuesday of last week, and at a called meeting of the City Council on Thursday night they resolved thusly:

"That we, as a Council and individually, condemn in severest terms the false and foolish act of the newspaper reporter who caused such reports to be published and circulated."

"We brand as false in whole and in part each and every statement to the effect that the Council at any time passed drastic or any resolution or ordinance in any way pertaining to the fuel situation or the remedy therefor."

Pretty warm, eh? But, gentlemen of the City Council, when Mr. DeHaven went before you on Monday, Feb. 4, the night of the regular monthly meeting of the Council and stated that the constitution was serious and that he would use severest methods, if necessary, to get it if the Council would back him up, did not you say "Go ahead, we are behind you?" If you did not make that statement why did you cause to be stricken from the above resolutions when it came to a vote, sections to the effect that "the Council deplores the action of the City Marshal by taking it upon himself without any authority from this body in holding up a train of coal," and expressing your disapproval of his act?

At the meeting of the City Council, those Councilmen present when this conversation is alleged to have taken place were Mayor James G. Harris and S. H. McCracken, Joseph Fitch, Charlie Hook and J. T. O'Connell. The absent members were J. A. Barry and L. T. Reid.

At a called meeting of the City Council on last Thursday night that body sought to exonerate itself from all blame in this matter and attempted apparently to shudder the whole responsibility upon the City Marshal and to condemn the newspapers for publishing the report.

The following verbatim report of the proceedings of that meeting will show whether they succeeded in establishing their claim to absolute innocence:

Promptly at 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by the Mayor.

The Mayor announced that the body was ready to take action upon any business that came before it.

Councilman J. A. Barry arose and dressed the chair: "Mr. Mayor, I have some resolutions when I prepared them that I wish to have presented to this."

The resolutions, of which the above portion, were read aloud by the Mayor. In the resolutions were two sections casting the whole blame upon the Marshal and "deplored his unwise act."

After the reading of the resolutions the Mayor asked if there was anyone wished to discuss the subject before the resolutions were voted on.

"No, Mayor," said Marshal DeHaven, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Barry, "there are two sides to every question. I prepared those resolutions, and as I understand it they are correct. If I am rightly informed, Mr. DeHaven acted without authority from this body. I was not present when this conversation is alleged to have taken place, but in view of what I have learned from a reliable source I move that the resolutions as a whole be adopted."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Councilman Fitch read the resolutions and argued that he saw no resolution that reflected on the Marshal.

"Read 'em again," some one suggested.

(Fifth reading. No alarming symptoms of a clash. The Council was in a quandary, but did not collapse.)

"I move that we omit the sections blaming the Marshal," said Councilman O'Connell. The motion was seconded, but before a vote was taken Marshal DeHaven addressed the chair.

"Mr. Mayor," said the Marshal, "I want to say a few words before this question comes to a vote. In discussing the coal situation you said there was plenty of coal and that the railroad company had plenty of cars and was hauling it through Cloverport to other points, and that the road should be made to furnish coal to Cloverport. It was then that I said if the Council will uphold me I will get coal here if I have to hold up a train to get it. You told me to 'go ahead' and I did. In view of this," continued Mr. DeHaven, "I do not see where the Cloverport City Council has a right to pass resolutions condemning the newspapers, the City Marshal or any one else. YOU AUTHORIZED ME TO GET COAL HERE IF I HAD TO STOP A TRAIN; that is what the newspapers stated."

The newspapers said I held up a coal train. I did do. The newspapers told the truth. I do not see where the Council can attach any blame to the newspapers."

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions over again," said the Mayor.

(Second reading. No applause.)

Councilman McCracken: "I do not believe that we should lay all of this blame on the Marshal. I move that the two sections referring to the Marshal be stricken from the resolutions."

"I second the motion," came from across the room.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman Reid.

"One seemed to know.

"Mr. Clerk, read those resolutions again," said a Councilman.

(Second reading. Anxious public (?); suppressed excitement (?); probable riot (?).)

A disinterested party would have thought that the Panama Canal Commission was in session again, or that the expulsion of Japanese children from the San Francisco school had been transferred from the National Capital to the Cloverport City Council for settlement.

In any event it was very apparent that the situation had become grave to some of the members of that body.

"Did not I say," said the Mayor, addressing Marshal DeHaven, "that if I were asked what action I would take in the event that you secured coal for the city by any means to relieve the situation, that I would take no action. Is not that a fact?"

"No, sir, it is NOT a fact."

"What did I say?" rejoined the Mayor. "Four councilmen are present who heard the conversation."

No member of the council volunteered his services in aid of the Mayor and the incident was virtually closed.

It was evident that Marshal DeHaven had scored another victory.

"Mr. Mayor," said Councilman Hook, "I object to voting in favor of those resolutions as they now stand. WE DID

SAY WE WOULD BACK UP THE MARSHAL."

"I move that we vote on the resolutions, omitting the paragraphs referring to the Marshal," said Councilman McCracken.

A general discussion followed. The Council was in a dilemma, it was very evident. They wanted to make good but Marshal DeHaven proved a very formidable obstruction to the end the council desired.

"What are we voting on?" asked Councilman O'Connell. Amid the apparent amusement of the spectators the resolutions were again read.

(Fourth reading. Nobody hurt (?); the stillness of a graveyard prevailed.)

Partners of the Tide

... By
JOSEPH C. LINCOLN
Author of "Cap'n Er"

Copyright, 1906, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

"Brad, we're going to have a new mate," back. "You be thankful you ain't got any. And here!" the tone was almost savage. "You take my advice and obey orders, and don't ask questions."

He was on deck immediately, and after a moment, Bradley followed him.

The rebuff was so unexpected and so undeserved, the circumstances considered, that it hurt the young man keenly. His pride was touched, and he resented it. But he knew that Ticombs should have no further cause for complaint so far as interference by his recent officer was concerned. As for the captain, he kept to himself and said little to any one during the afternoon.

The new first mate came on board that evening. It was a thin set, dark man, who talked a great deal, spoke profusely and laughed loudly over his own jokes. He seemed to know his business and, as the captain would have said, "caught hold" at once.

They sailed the next morning, and by the time the tug left them, the two mates had become quite different in the style of affairs aboard the schooner.

The usual rigid discipline seemed to be lacking. There was no rebellion or sign of mutiny, but merely a general shiftness that Mr. Burke did not seem to notice. Strange to say, Captain Ticombs did not notice it either. If anything, he seemed to be more inclined to interfere with the orders and ask no questions."

There was a good wind and a smooth sea, and the captain drove the Thomas Dorne for all she was worth. He was in his element, following out what they were in Vineyard sound. Bradley's suspicions as to this time come to be almost certain. For two or three sallows to show signs of drunkenness on the first morning out of port was nothing strange, but to have them continue throughout the day, and the end of the second day was proof that there were bottles in the forecastle. But Captain Ticombs, usually the first to suspect the presence of these abominations and to punish their owners, now, apparently, was unaware of their presence. The first mate, too, either did not see or did not care.

Bradley was standing by the fo'c'ste just at dusk that evening when a sailor humped violently into him in passing.

The second mate spoke sharply to the offender, and the answer he received was silent.

"Here you!" exclaimed Bradley, seizing the man by the shoulder and whirling him violently around, "do you know who you're talking to? Speak to me again like that, and I'll break you in two."

The man—he was a new hand—muttered a reply to the effect that he had been "drunk, sir, to say the least."

"Well, don't say it again. Stand up, you drunk! Now, where did you get your liquor?"

"Ain't got none, sir."

"You're a liar. Stand up or you'll lie down for a good while. Anybody with a nose could smell rum if you passed an inch to windward. Where did you get it?"

The sailor began a further protestation, but Bradley clutched it off and shook him savagely. The first mate, hearing the scuffle, came hurrying up the hatch. "What's all this? Mr. Nickerson?" he asked.

"This man's drunk, and I want to know where the rum came from."

Mr. Burke spoke sternly. "Look here," he shouted, "isn't that so? Are you drunk?"

"No, sir."

"You're mighty close to it, Why didn't the first mate swear for a full minute? "Do you know what I'd do to a man that brought rum aboard a vessel of mine? I'd use his bloody blankee hide for a sponge." The cook feed the coals with care, the English not out of here, and to another he watched you sharpish."

He gave the fellow a kick that sent him flying, and, turning to Bradley, said in a confidential whisper: "Ain't it queer how a shore drunk'll stick to a man? I've seen 'em come aboard so many times, and they stayed so for a week afterward."

"I think they've got the liquor down for good here."

"I guess not. If I thought so, I'd kill the whole—half dozen descriptive adjectives—" They can't play with me blank, you know."

With a smile of Mr. Burke's demeanor, Bradley wasn't satisfied. He believed that if the first mate had let him alone he would have found the liquor. However, he thought if he used the skipper's name, Mr. Burke cared it more.

"Well, you know me, and I'm a regular drunkard," he said, stepping to the companion ladder.

"The new first mate'll be here tonight. His name's Burke."

Bradley did not move. "Just a minute, Cap'n Er," he called. "You know—"

"I know all about my business, but—"

"Well, you understand, I guess. You're in trouble somebody can see that. Won't you let me help you out?"

The captain paused with his foot on the ladder. "My troubles are my own," he answered, without looking at Bradley.

"They've got rum with 'em, all right," he whispered. "Well, we'll be to Boston tomorrow, and there ain't no use startin' a row till daylight. Then some of these smart Alecs'll find out who's in a hurry or my fat don't weigh what it used to. Better not say nothing to the skipper," he added. "No use to worry him."

It was odd advice from a mate, but Bradley could see, in his astonishment, there was no need of telling Captain Ticombs that his plan was to get rid of the latter knew his crew's condition and deliberately ignored it. Men stumbled past him, and he looked the other way. Simple orders were ignored, and he wanted no reprobation. Only once that evening did his wrath blazed out in the old manner. A sailor was found to have been to some place, and instead of the usual "Aye, aye, sir," he replied with a muttered curse.

The next instant Captain Ervin's fist was between his eyes, and he fell, to be jerked to his feet again and back to his station. The skipper's hand was in his sailor's collar.

"Hanging you!" said the captain, between his teeth. "Till—I swear I'll!"

Mr. Burke came running and whirled eagerly in his commander's ear.

Captain Ticombs's arm straightened, and the sailor was thrown across the deck.

"Go forward!" roared the skipper.

"And if you want to live you keep out of my sight! I can't help it, Burke. I've got some self respect left yet!"

That was all, and Bradley wondered.

Under such circumstances, he was bound to be serious. Bradley was below when it happened. He usually took the first watch, but tonight Captain Ticombs said he would take it, and Mr. Burke would stay up with him for awhile. So the second mate turned in, and the first mate, who had been on deck and the sound of voices and footsteps on the companion ladder. Opening his stateroom door, he saw four men descending the ladder, carrying a fifth in their arms.

"What's the matter?" asked Bradley.

"Who's hurt?"

"It's the skipper," replied one of the sailors in a frightened voice. "He fell and hurt his head."

Bradley sprang into the cabin and saw Captain Ticombs unconscious and with the blood running from an ugly cut on his forehead.

"For God's sake!" he began, but was interrupted by Burke, who, with a very white face, was descending the ladder.

"Hush up!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Burke had been brought up to discourage familiarity with men before the mast.

"Are you sure you saw it?" he asked sharply.

"Nawthins' sir. Only he know this course? Ah, see Skakit light twice year now and a half a mile off half off. That must be it, sir."

"Are you sure you saw it?" he replied with a muttered curse.

"Yes, sir."

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below!" he yelled. "Go below and stay below, or I'll find out why!"

Then, as if he realized that he was showing too much temper, he added in a milder tone: "It's all right, Nickerson. We're three miles offshore, and

nothing with his hand, whatever he said hoarsely: "Mr. Nickerson, you know 'bout the fast mate? He all right?"

Bradley turned away. He hated to risk another snub from the mate, and he fully realized the danger of revealing his secret. He was sure that Captain Ticombs was not in command, and he was Swensen's testimony to back his own that the schooner was running too close to the dangerous Cape Cod beaches. The course she was on was taking her still closer in, and the fog was growing thicker.

The time Burke was standing by the man at the wheel. He swore when the second mate approached and snarled.

"Mr. Burke, are you sure that wasn't the Skakit?" he said. "Swensen says he saw it twice in not more than a mile and a half away. If that's so, we are running into shoal water. hadn't I better try soundings?"

In a blast of profanity Burke signed both Bradley and Swensen to the lowest level in the brimstone furnace.

"Go below

ALKED WITH SHELBY TRIPPLETT.

J. M. Tydings Related What He Told About The Way He Was Injured.

The following appeared in the Louisville Evening Post of last Wednesday.

I am from yesterday's Courier Journal that the late Shelby Triplett, who was in the sky making a lightning bolt to the cause of his father's death.

I knew Mr. Triplett well eleven years ago when living on my farm near Lexington, Ky. I saw him at the City Hospital the morning after his injury, and had two or three subsequent interviews with him before he died. In the first, between 8 and 10 a.m., as he sat in the side of the cot with his legs dangling over, his attitude was that of one suffering great pain in the region of the stomach or bowels. Both hands were firmly pressed over the abdomen, while his body was fixed forward to add to the pressure. He was suffering great pain evidently and the frequent paroxysms that seized him made it difficult for him to articulate distinctly. He was quite lucid at the time, and free from the effects of drink, if he had been drinking, as is stated, during the night previous. His statement was that he had been knocked down by some person or persons in the dark near the corner of Ninth and Main, and while down was kicked in the stomach and robbed of his watch and four or five dollars in cash. The man who made the statement in his interview in the afternoon was just his son, and he had been informed by one of the nurses. For the comfort of his friends at home, permit me to say, further, he died professing faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

J. M. Tydings.

F. E. B.

We heard a man say the other morning that the obituary for February 2nd—means freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his miser. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

AT THE NEWS OFFICE

Webster's International Dictionary, with a supplement of additional words and meanings $10.09

Eastman Kodak, No. 3 Series, Price 19.00

Sanford's Premium Writing Fluid for fountain pens, per pint 50

Writing and Copying Combined Fluid, per pint 50

Sandford's Library Paste.

Ledgers, Note-Books, Blank Deeds and Mortgages, Memorandum Books.

School Supplies, Business and Social Stationery.

Monogram Stationery, Printed Letter Heads and Envelopes.

Printed and Engraved Business Cards.

Daily Papers, Magazines and Novels.

Souvenir Post Cards.

For Sale at the NEWS OFFICE

TWO YEARS FOR $1.25

A complete history of two history-making years—1907 and 1908. The entire proceedings of all the important sessions of Congress to be held during those two years. The fight to a finish of the impending battle against the gigantic trusts and monopolies. Every detail of the next national campaign, including all the party conventions and the final election of the Presidential election of November, 1908. In short, all the news of all the earth.

Twice-a-Week-Issue
OF THE

ST. LOUIS

GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

Two big papers every week. Eight or more pages each Tuesday and Friday. The best newspaper in the United States. Pre-eminent as a journal for the home. Unrivalled as an exponent of the principles of the Republican party. Always bright, always clean, always newsy, always reliable. Write for free sample copy or send One Dollar for One Year's subscription. Better still, remit $1.25 to-day to the GLOBE PRINTING CO., ST. LOUIS, MO., and secure this Great Semi-Weekly Paper Two weeks, under special "long-time" campaign offer, which must be accepted within 30 days from date of this paper.

WO YEARS FOR $1.25.

EASTON'S PLANT WORN OUT. BRIEF DISPATCHES

Rundown Machinery and Dark Streets. Appeal to Corporations.

Easton, Pa., is one of the cities that has been knocked down by some person or persons in the dark near the corner of Ninth and Main, and while down was kicked in the stomach and robbed of his watch and four or five dollars in cash. The man who made the statement in his interview in the afternoon was just his son, and he had been informed by one of the nurses. For the comfort of his friends at home, permit me to say, further, he died professing faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

J. M. Tydings.

SATURDAY

Four thousand men and seven hundred women employed in the hat factories of the Orange, N. J. district, are out on strike.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 211, against 222 in the week and 228 in the month, were of 1906.

The differences between the Duke and the Duchess of Marlborough have been settled privately, and their affairs will not get into court.

The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business Jan. 31 the total debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $927,441,206.

General Luis Mata y Vilas, governor of Caracas, was assassinated by a crowd of intoxicated partisans of Vicente Gomez, first vice president of the republic.

MONDAY

Congressman William H. Black of New York is dead at Washington.

The "Day and Night" Tobacco company's plant at Cincinnati was destroyed by fire; loss, $65,000.

Jacob Kuhn and his two young daughters are dead at Newark, N. J., as the result of asphyxiation.

A woman and her children were found frozen to death in an upstairs room at Grand Rapids, Mich.

O. C. Sinclair Monton, a well-known Louisville hotel man, committed suicide by shooting in the Grand Union hotel.

Fire destroyed the plant of Thomas Keisler Company, manufacturers of oiler fixtures and billiard tables.

The movement of internal commerce during the past year exceeded that for any preceding one in the history of the country.

TUESDAY

The King of Siam is to visit the United States in May.

United States District Court Judge Charles Partridge is dead at New Orleans.

George Wiley, treasurer of Contra Costa county, California, shot and killed himself.

President C. S. Barrett of the National Farmers' Union, has declared emphatically in favor of the defeat of the government free seed bill.

G. J. Grammer, vice president of the New York Central railroad and traffic manager of the lines of that system west of Buffalo, is dead.

Centurion, a $100,000,000 bond issue made by the post office committee on payments to be made to railroads for carrying mails.

Appropriations aggregating $269,180,561 are carried in the postage bill agreed upon by the house committee on post offices and post roads.

WEDNESDAY

There is said to be a "corner" in Brazilian coffee.

Dillon's drygoods store at Detroit was destroyed by fire; loss, $100,000.

Savine lives lost in a snowdrift that overwhelmed a mining camp near Salida, Colorado.

John O. Briggs was nominated by the New Jersey legislature for United States senator.

Archduke Ludwig Victor, the only living brother of Emperor Francis Joseph, is seriously ill.

Your trainmen were killed in a wreck at Colby station (Ky) on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

The Dawes Commission has completed its work on the enrollment of five civilized tribes of Indians.

William Jennings Bryan and Senator Beveridge are preparing a twelve-month series of political debates to run in the form of magazine articles.

THURSDAY

Three women are reported to have frozen to death as the result of the recent blizzard in South Dakota.

"Aunty" Jane Lewis, whose age is authentically estimated to have been 118 years, is dead at Hamilton, Ohio.

The general trend of the elections in Russia appears favorable to the party in opposition to the government.

The Cuban people generally are manifesting opposition to the project to increase the armed force of the public.

Secretary Taft is making strong efforts to secure the approval of Congress on the plan which he has formulated for the reorganization of the agricultural bank in the Philippines.

James A. Douglas, chief master armorer on the United States cruiser Tennessee, was shot and killed by Harry Burke, a sailor who became enraged when placed under arrest on board the ship.

FRIDAY

By a party vote of 29 to 11, the "Jim Crow" bill was passed in the Missouri senate.

The president has signed the general service bill recently passed by Congress.

Three trainmen were killed in a week on the Great Western road at the Rock Valley, Ia.

John D. Rockefeller has given the General Education board $2,000,000. He had previously given the board $1,000,000.

A steam launch containing seven persons struck a river pier at Sacramento, Cal. All were thrown into the water and drowned.

The trial of Dr. J. W. Simpson, charged with the murder of Dr. T. Horner, his father-in-law at Riverhead, L. I., returned a verdict of not guilty.

Nursing baby?

It's a heavy strain on mother.

Her system is called upon to supply nourishment for two.

Some form of nourishment that will be easily taken up by mother's system is needed.

Scot's Emulsion contains the greatest possible amount of nourishment in easily digested form.

Mother and baby are wonderfully helped by its use.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00

THE RRECKENRIDGE NEWS

And The

LOUISVILLE DAILY HERALD,

Both One Year For $2.00

A. H. SKILLMAN, CHASER,
CHAR. SKILLMAN, ASST.-CHASER.

The Old Reliable

BRECKINRIDGE BANK,

Organized 1872. Capital and Surplus $62,000.00.

Inured in every way, and protected by the very latest equipment.

Interest paid on time deposits.

Business great and small solicited.

Indigestion

LOUISVILLE & EVANSVILLE
PACKET CO.
(INCORPORATED.)

Fast Mail and Passenger Lines between Louisville and Evansville.

Steamers:

Tarascon,

Tell City,

Leave Louisville Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, 7 A.M.

Leave Evansville Monday 10 A.M., Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday 6 P.M.

Through freight rates and passenger tickets to Cincinnati. Freight shipments delivered quicker than by rail.

PASSENGER FARE REDUCED.

Cloverport to Louisville $1.75
Cloverport to Evansville 1.75
Cloverport to Owensboro 75

Splendid accommodations for stock. General Office, 154-156-158 1st at Louisville, Ky.

C. V. WILLIAMS, G. F. and P. A.
GEO. H. WILSON, Sup't

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

SEVERS DRUG CO.

The Dodging Period

of a woman's life is the name often given to "change of life." Your senses come at long intervals, and the change lasts three or four years, and causes much pain and suffering, which can, however, be cured, by taking

Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and慈悲fully recommend

L. H. & ST. L. TIME TABLE
EAST ROUND.

No. 146, Daily Fast Train leaves Cloverport 6:30 A.M., arrives Louisville 7:30 A.M.

No. 147, "Daily fast and express, leaves Cloverport 6:30 A.M., arrives Louisville 7:30 A.M.

Train No. 148, Daily, fast mail, leaves Cloverport 6:30 A.M., arrives Louisville 7:30 A.M.

Train No. 149, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 150, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 151, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 152, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 153, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 154, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 155, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 156, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 157, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 158, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 159, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 160, Daily, fast mail, leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 161, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 162, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 163, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 164, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 165, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 166, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 167, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 168, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 169, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 170, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 171, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 172, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 173, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 174, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 175, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 176, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 177, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 178, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 179, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 180, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 181, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 182, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 183, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 184, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 185, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 186, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 187, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 188, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 189, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 190, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 191, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 192, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 193, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 194, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 195, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 196, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 197, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 198, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 199, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 200, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 201, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 202, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 203, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 204, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 205, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 206, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 207, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 208, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 209, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 210, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 211, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 212, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 213, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 214, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 215, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 216, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 217, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 218, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 219, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 220, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 221, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 222, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 223, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 224, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 225, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 226, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Henderson 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 227, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Evansville 8:30 A.M.

Train No. 228, Daily, fast mail and express leaves Louisville 7:30 A.M., arrives Owensboro 8:30 A.M.

</div

THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS,

JNO. D. BABBAGE SONS' PUBLISHING CO.

Issued Every Wednesday.

Subscription Price $1.00 a year or $1.25 if paid at the end of year
CARDS OF THANKS over five lines charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

OBITUARIES charged for at the rate of 5 cents per line. Money in advance.

Examine the label on your paper. If it is not correct please notify us.

When ordering a change in the address subscribers should give their old as well as the new address.

EIGHT PAGES.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1907.

THE OUTRAGE OF LAST TUESDAY.

It is useless to reiterate all of the details incident to the outrage of last Tuesday, the hold-up for two hours and thirty-five minutes of a Henderson Route freight train. What concerns us most here is the injustice the mayor and council of this town have inflicted upon the Henderson Route and the newspapers. When a body of men elected by a people to govern a city become so domineering as to ride rough-shod over the best friend Cloverport has ever had—that is the Henderson Route—it is high time these men should be made to regret in a material way their action.

It is a plain fact, though not on the city records, that the council did authorize the city marshal to hold up that train. But, these gentlemen, after seeing their mistake, and some of them through fear of losing their jobs with the Henderson Route, turn yellow, and join in a sweeping denial of every newspaper report published concerning the incident; call the man who wrote the articles a liar; try to exonerate themselves from all blame and walk out of the mess as though they had never ordered a train hold-up. The mayor and the city council have officially called the News and other papers throughout the State liars. The council has shown neither regard nor respect for the newspapers in the matter, and has therefore made enemies for the town. It matters little to the newspapers what the council of this village may have to say about them. The council appears to the newspapers as a very small pebble on a very large beach. The council has displayed a bad spirit in the whole affair, and as a result Cloverport will suffer.

Ex-Governor Leslie died at Helena, Montana, February 7, of old age, being in his eighty-fifth year.

Owensboro is awakening. Her people and the citizens of Davies county are pushing vigorously the local option cause, and are attempting to free the county and city of saloons.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller has given $32,000,000 to the General Educational Board to be used in assisting needy colleges, this being the largest gift ever given for educational purposes by any man.

A man named Weyhauser, of the Northwest, looms up now as the richest man in the world. His wealth is in the form of timber land, and it is said, exceeds by far that of the Kerosene King.

Reports from Irvington say that the many recent marriages have exhausted her supply of young men; that there still remains in camp a regiment of beautiful and charming young ladies and that the Town Board is seriously considering ways and means of inducing young men to come and pitch camp in the thriving little city.

England's wealth, according to the London Express, is increasing at the rate of $7,000,000 a week. That is less than one-seventh of the rate of the increase of wealth in the South. The increase in the true value of Southern wealth in the past 12 months was $2,690,000,000, or about $7,300,000 for every day in the year, including Sundays and holidays. Not only is the speed of increase in the South so much greater than that in England, but the South possesses resources, agricultural and mineral, that make certain in the future even a much greater rate of increase than England. No wonder the London Express bemoans the fact that England cannot keep the pace we have set.—Manufacturers' Record.

SUCCESS TO THE SCHOOL BOYS.

Cheer the school boys on! Say a word of encouragement to the young fellows who day after day climb the hill and do their sums. A small handful of boys in the High School now when it should be crowded. Boys at the High School age are at the money-making age and every day they spend in school costs them the seventy-five cents or dollar they could have made at work. This is why it takes encouragement and all the cheering old folks can give them to keep the boys in school. The pay envelope looks much more interesting to the boy of sixteen than does his Algebra or his Latin. But if we are to have a well governed town—a town our posterity will be proud of—our boys and girls of today should climb the hill and do their sums.

THE COUNCIL'S ANNUAL REPORT.

It is a matter of much concern and vital interest to every citizen of this town as to why the council has never made public through some newspaper its report for the year 1906. The custom has been to publish this report about January 1, in accordance with the law. Ordinance No. 8, Section 6, under head "Duties of City Clerk" reads:

"He shall keep a correct account between the city and its officers, and require all officers to make monthly or quarterly settlements, as may be required by the charter or ordinances. He shall make quarterly and annual reports, in writing to the council showing in a full and detailed statement all receipts and expenditures of the city and the amount remaining in the treasury, which reports, when approved by the council, shall be spread at large upon the records; and he shall cause to be published annually a full statement of the financial affairs of the city."

The city's money for 1906 may have been expended in the most judicious way, but the public has no record of it handy. As it now is, one would have to go to the clerk's notes and figure it up for himself. The News cares nothing as to whether or not it is given the report to publish, but we do insist that the report should be forthcoming at an early date.

FRUIT NOT DAMAGED

By The Recent Cold Spell, Say Those Who Know.

The anxiety felt by many for the safety of the peach and pear crops during the recent cold spell has been relieved by a thorough investigation of the young buds. Those who own orchards say that fruit has escaped injury thus far and that every indication points to a large yield.

Death of Aaron Polk.

Mr. Aaron Polk died on last Thursday morning at the home of his niece, Mrs. Dock Payne, across the river, near Tobinsport. Death was due to infirmities incident to old age.

Decesed was in his eighty-ninth year and had been in feeble health for some time. The burial was at Tobinsport and took place on Friday afternoon. Mr. Polk had never married and leaves no near relatives except his niece, Mrs. Payne. He was quite well known up and down the Ohio river, having served as pilot on a flat boat. Of late years, however, he had retired from active life. He was universally liked and his death caused regret to those who knew him.

Miss Stalman Entertained.

Miss Etta Schlamp gave a chafing dish party on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Margaret Stalman, Chemung, Ky. Those present were: Misses Stalman, Myrtle Scott, Messrs. Morgan Eckert, Dr. Casper and Silas Hirch. Mrs. Jno. Schlamp entertained at cards at her home on Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Etta Stalman's visitor, Miss Stalman of Chemung, Ky. An elegant two course luncheon was served. Miss Stalman captured the visitor's affections.—Henderson Gleaner.

Stag Dinner.

Mr. Marion Wessibrook, cashier of the Bank of Cloverport, celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday anniversary Friday, February the eighth, by entertaining a number of his friends to dinner at his home. Pink carnations were given as favors to the guests, who were: Capt. Rowland, Rev. Jas. L. Lewis, Rev. B. M. Carrie, Prof. J. P. King, Mr. Sexton, Mr. Will Pate, Dr. Siemons, Mr. Leonard Oelze and Mr. Frank Payne.

Rev. Brandon Here.

The many friends of Rev. W. C. Brandon, have enjoyed his visit exceedingly, made here during the past few days. Rev. Brandon held the pastorale with the Methodist church of this city fifteen years ago. He is now secretary of the State Educational Board of the M. E. church. Sunday morning and evening, Bro. Brandon delivered two helpful and excellent sermons.

The Mizpah Entertained.

At the home of Mrs. F. M. Smith Friday afternoon a delightful social was given in honor of the Mizpah society and the guests. A luncheon was served, and on each place card was written a subject to be discussed by the guests. Miss Francis and Eliza Smith assisted their mother in entertaining.

Mrs. Temple in Mississippi.

Mrs. Lucy Temple, of Yelvington, is in Greenville, Miss., where she will spend two or three months. Since the death of her brother, Mr. John Evans, Mrs. Temple has been there in the interest of settling his estate.

The Jar of Coughing

Hammer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and tears the throat and lungs until the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the coughing, and heals the torn membranes.

The best kind of a testimonial—
"Gold for over thirty years."

Made by J. C. Ayer & Son, Lowell, Mass.
Ayers' SARSAPARILLA, PILLS,
TINCTURE,
VINEGAR.

We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines.

Biliousness, constipation retarded recovery. Cure these with Ayer's Pills.

Stylish,
Comfortable
Tailor made clothes.

All the latest patterns for suits and trousers in high-grade fabrics. Clothes made by modern methods. Fit guaranteed. Moderate prices. Expert tailors employed.

J. H. HUNSCHE,
Casper, May & Co., Canfield, Ind.

H. DeH. MOORMAN,
Attorney at Law,
HARRISONBURG, KY.
Will practice his profession in all of the Courts of Breckinridge and adjoining counties, and in the U. S. Circuit Court, in railroad cases, and criminal practice. Licensed to practice in United States District Courts. Offices over Bank of Harrisonburg.

R. S. BANDY
Irvington, Ky.

Extra Special Mark-Downs in

Our Great Clearance Sale!

The special mark-downs for this are unusually attractive, they are articles for every day use. We can afford to dispose of them at these low prices, as we cannot afford to carry them over, and we need the room worse for our SPRING STOCK, which is unusually large and attractive.

Underwear.

Every garment in our Underwear line greatly reduced in price.

Men's heavy fleeced 50c garments at 39c

Boys' heavy fleeced 40c garments at 30c

Ladies' 60c Union Suits at 50c

Ladies' 50c Vests and Pants at 39c

Ladies' 25c Vests and Pants at 20c

Boys' and Misses' 50c Union Suits at 39c

Boys' and Misses' 35c Union Suits at 27c

Boys' and Misses' 25c Union Suits at 19c

Sweaters

Men's heavy ribbed Sweaters regular price 50c. Marked down price 39c Shirts.

Men's heavy Jersey work Shirts, regular 50c values. Marked down price 39c

Our 5c and 10c Counter, as usual, is full, and of articles of the very best for these counters.

See them, and you will want no further recommendation.

B. F. BEARD & CO., Hardinsburg, Ky.

No Waiting Here

Just tell us how much lumber you need. We have all kinds of framing material, choice Poplar and Walnut is ready for you.

That's the thing you were unable to get so quick before.

Let us have your order today. Your House, Barn or Stable may need repairs.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

What name is so dear to every patriotic American! We honor his memory this week on the anniversary of his birthday. A man like him can never be forgotten. Let us hope the Stars and Stripes, emblem of the Liberty he won for us, wave over a free and happy people, and may the spirit of Washington live in him be ours also. Until the next anniversary, we will try to be in the hearts of our customers.

BANK OF CLOVERPORT.
CLOVERPORT, KY.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS AND COLDS.

Price 50c & $1.00
Fees Trial.

Buy and send for sample.

Tutt's Pills

will save the dyspeptic from many days of misery, and enable him to eat whatever he wishes. They prevent cause the food to assimilate and nourish the body, give keen appetite,

SICK HEADACHE,

DEVELOP FLESH
and solid muscle. Elegantly sugar-coated.

Take No Substitute.

Call at Preston's for the best flour.

A. A. LaHeit went to Louisville Sunday.

Call for the Lewisport flour on sale at Preston's.

Preston sells Lewisport flour, the best in the market.

Mrs. Edward Bowne was in Louisville last week.

Miss Addie Datto, of Louisville, will arrive this week.

Miss Elizabeth Skillman was in Lon-

ville last week.

Mr. Horvins Rafferty was home from Louisville Sunday.

Mrs. Cornelia Miller, of Holt, was the guest of friends here last week.

W. H. Bowmer was here from Louisville to attend quarterly conference.

Mrs. Margaret Moorman will entertain the Girl Club this afternoon.

If there is anything you want in Harness call at Babage's in Oels' big store.

Mr. Author Douthitt, of Owensboro, was here Sunday the guest of Miss Bessie Keys.

Mrs. Marion Ryan, of Cincinnati, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Weatherholt.

Miss Ella Smith left Saturday morning for Owensboro to spend two weeks visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Sawyer entertained Rev. H. M. Currie and family and

Rev. W. C. Brandon to dinner Sunday.

Miss Loma Kennedy, of Webster, returned home Sunday after a visit to Mr.

and Mrs. Jess Bohler.

News has been received here of the arrival of a fine daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Stuart Miller, of Owensboro.

Rev. R. Hays, Presiding Elder of the Owensboro District, held quarterly meeting here Monday evening at the Methodist church.

Morrison & Calhoun dentists, office downstairs, 205 Fourth street, both present, Owensboro, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. May Jr., of Cannetton, and Mr. D. C. Heron, of Irvington, were guests at the home of Mr. Chas. May in this city last week.

TWO SISTERS HAVE ECZEMA OF HEAD

Two Illinois Girls Suffer from Scalp Trouble—Another Sister Needs a Tonic—Friend Suggests Cuticura—They Use It and Now Give

MUCH PRAISE TO ALL CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I must give much praise to all the Cuticura Remedies. I used one but one can't cure scalp trouble. I used Cuticura Ointment, as that was all that was required to cure my disease, that was most trying. I had a sore on the head, and a friend of mine told me about the Cuticura Remedies, which I did, and I am glad to say that my eczema entirely. Since then we have always kept the soap on hand at all times. My sister has had a case of eczema of the head by using the Cuticura Remedies. Another sister has Cuticura Remedies, and she thinks they are a splendid tonic. I can now eat exactly as long as I want to. Edith Hammer, R. F. D. No. 6, Morrison, Ill., Oct. 3, 1906."

EVERY CHILD Afflicted with Torturing Disfiguring Humors

Becomes the object of the most tender solicitude, not only by parents and nursing, but, because of the dreadful fear that it may become permanent, and mar its future happiness, and that of its parents. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the purest and most effective remedies available, viz: warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with the Cuticura Salve and Skin Cure, made in infancy and childhood are usually speedy and permanent.

Compt. Proct. & Co., Louisville, Kentucky, manufacturers of Cuticura Soap, and Cuticura Salve, and Cuticura Ointment (50c) to treat the skin diseases of children, and infants. Price, per jar, 10c to Purify the blood, and to remove the skin disease. Price, per jar, 10c. On account of skin and hair.

Godfrey Ball is at home recovering

O. T. Skillman was in Louisville last week.

Julius Dutschke, of Holt, was here Saturday.

Mr. John Carter is visiting relatives in Owensboro.

Mrs. James Cordrey will leave soon for Pineview to visit Mrs. Reece.

Mrs. M. Burdette has returned from a visit to relatives in Owensboro.

Pure Cream Cheese, cut to the Queen's taste, at Babage's, the big store.

The Baldwin eating apples, the very best on the market, at the Big Store.

Mrs. Florence Lewis spent Sunday in Irvington the guest of Mrs. Joe Matttingly.

Mr. Andrew Crawford, of Stephensport, was the guest of D. H. Severs last week.

Mrs. Herbert Beard, of Hardinsburg, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. L. Lightfoot.

Mrs. Ike Myer left Saturday for Louisville enroute to Alabama where Mr. Myer is located.

If you want to make your wife happy get her a sack of Lewisport Flour in Cloverport by Preston, Williams and O'Connell.

Mrs. Clara Mattingly, of Mattingly, has entered St. Francis Academy, at Owensboro.

You can buy 2 cans best corn for 15c, and 2 cans peat for 15c at Babage's, the big store.

Mr. Chas. Mattingly, of Morganfield, is here on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Ridgway.

Mrs. S. F. Heron, of Philadelphia, renewed her subscription to the News last week, and in her letter she asks to be remembered to her Cloverport friends.

Mrs. George Short and Mrs. Eugene Hayes have been visiting places of interest in Texas during the last two weeks. Last week they were in Dallas and Fort Worth.

The social committee of the Epworth League will give a Hearts Carnival in the parlors of the M. E. church tomorrow evening. Miss Lula Sleva will have charge of the entertainment.

E. C. Babage has been ill in Palestine, Texas, during the last week. His illness was caused by a severe abscess on the palm of his right hand. An operation was necessary for relief.

7 bars Lanox soap 25c, 7 bars Red Wrapper soap 25c, 6 boxes Capitol matches 25c, 2 spools Glare thread (colored) 25c, 2 1/2 pound bulk Soda 5c, Armful's small ham 12 1/2c per pound, 20 pounds granulated Sugar $1 for spot money at Babage's, the big store.

Mr. A. H. Murray, director of the Methodist church choir, who has been ill for several weeks is now improving and was able to fill his place in the choir at the services Sunday morning. "Notar My God To Thee," a beautiful anthem was rendered Sunday morning and excellently led by Miss Eva May.

Personal Notes
from Hardinsburg.

F. L. Peyton, of Owensboro, was in town Saturday.

Hubert Bruner, of Union Star, was in town Monday.

The County Board of Supervisors finally adjourned Friday.

The Rev. Isaiah Cline filled the pulpit at the M. E. Church Sunday.

Jesse Day, of Leitchfield, is here visiting his brother, Dr. E. F. Day.

Frank Fraize and C. W. Moorman, of Cloverport, are here attending court. Judge Henry DeH. Moorman spent several days of last week in Louisville.

Mrs. F. P. Stum and children, of Murray, are visiting Mrs. Margaret May.

Mr. Kimball Harmon left last week for New Orleans where she will visit relatives.

Amiel Oelze, of Cloverport, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Houston, Monday.

Col. W. K. Barnes who fell on the ice last week and hurt his head slightly has fully recovered.

Mrs. Gus D. Shellman entertained Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Earl Withers, of Elizton.

Mrs. Earl Weatherholt, of Elizton, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Reeves, returned home Monday.

The Breckenridge Fair Association has sold to Chapman Moorman 25 acres of the Forest farm for $1000 cash.

Mrs. Ruthie Severs and Miss Margaret Baker were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. King, at Webster last week.

The personal estate of Isaac Whitworth recently adjudicated a lunatic, was sold at the county door Monday.

T. J. Hook and C. V. Robertson went to Elizabethtown Thursday to inspect the Fair site and buildings, preparatory to having plans drawn for the buildings.

Godfrey Ball is at home recovering

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages.

Ely's Cream Balm

changes, soothes and heals the diseased membranes.

It especially cures away a cold in the head quickly.

Cold, heat, or a placebo is placed on the nostrils, and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. One size, 80 cents at Drugstore or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents.

ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren Street, New York.

LE ROY PLOWS

win prizes whenever exhibited. We can give testimonials from some of the best farmers at this place.

We can give you a free trial.

Write for our catalog.

Conrad, Payne & Co., Cloverport.

from the effects of an accident which occurred on a street car in Cincinnati. He has a position as motorman with the city Railway Co.

Canning Factory Removed.

The branch factory of the Polk Packing Co., which has been located at this place for several years, is being moved and the building will be torn down. A representative of the company is here now boxing up the machinery preparatory to shipping it to the main factory at Greenwood, Ind.

Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Lamb, of this city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. Elliott S. Sheffield, of New Orleans, La.

The marriage will take place Sunday, February 17, at the manse of the Woodlawn Presbyterian church in Chicago.

L. H. & St. L. Rates.

One way Colonist Rates to California and the North-west and Old Mexico.

March 1 to April 30. Supt. 1 to Oct. 31.

1907.

Whoa Maud.

Whereas, the newspaper companies throughout the country have during the present week caused to be published in their respective papers statements to the effect that the Marshal of Cloverport, Ky., with the assistance of armed citizens of Cloverport attempted to hold up one of the L. H. & St. L. Railways

Co.'s trains and take therefrom a car or cars of coal, to be distributed among the citizens of said town, and that this Council had previously passed resolutions condemning said railroad and directed said Marshal to act as above indicated, is wholly false and without foundation. Be it resolved,

First, That we as a Council and individual members in several terms of the false and foolish act of the newspaper

reporter who caused such report as above indicated to be published and circulated.

Second, We brand as false in whole and in part each and every statement made by any said paper to the effect that armed citizens or any citizen assisted said Marshal to procure coal from said train or to eat any of the things charged them.

Third, That we as a Council and individual members in several terms of

the false and foolish act of the newspaper

reporter who caused such report as above indicated to be published and circulated.

Third, We ask that all newspapers publish these resolutions and give them the same prominence which they gave to the article herein referred to.

Passed at a call meeting of the City Council, February 7, 1907.

J. G. Harris, Mayor.

Attest:

C. W. Patterson, City Clerk.

Sweeping Denial

Mr. Root Sets at Rest Rumors of Promised Sensation in Japanese Embroil'go.

HE GAVE OUT NO INTERVIEWS

Stories That Japan Had Issued an Ultimatum Officially Denied—Secretary Regards This Subject Eminent Unsolved to Public Discussion.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary Root refuses to make any statement touching the Japanese situation in its relation to the conference at the White House Wednesday between the president, some members of the cabinet and the California congressional delegation. He does, however, enter a sweeping denial of the authenticity of any of the published interviews attributed to him on any phase of this subject which he regards evidently untrue.

The Japanese ambassador is not accessible to newspaper reporters. Members of the embassy staff affirm that he had not authorized any newspaper statement.

The fact appears to be that a statement in the press cables dispatched as far back as Jan. 28 by the State Department for foreign affairs, that if the courts upheld San Francisco school officials, the master would require diplomatic treatment, was in some quarters erroneously attributed to Secretary Root. Who he is, is in the position of saying that he had not issued an ultimatum from Japan. Mr. Root denies that he has received any such communication, and careful inquiry fails to show that the alleged remark of Baron Hayashi has ever been communicated officially to this government.

To Take Things Over.
Washington, Feb. 4.—A conference between President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and the San Francisco board of education was held yesterday. Mayor Schmitz attended, as expected, to hold a Washington on Friday or Saturday to discuss the Japanese school question. It is understood that the president will endeavor to induce the board of education to rescind its action excluding the Japanese children from the schools.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.

"I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. My wife improved with first bottle and twelve bottles completed the cure." Cures the worse coughs and colds or mucus refunded. At Severs Drug Co., $6.00 and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

Von Buelow's Great Victory.
Berlin, Feb. 6.—The rehahiling in the Reichstag elections, which occurred throughout the empire yesterday, emphasized the government victory of Jan. 25. There were further heavy losses in Socialistic votes, while the Socialists made a return to the Reichstag showing of nearly half their strength. The nation has sustained Chancellor Von Buelow emphatically.

Rejected Bullock's Awful Revenge.
Ponca, Ark., Feb. 7.—Frank Frink, a farmer aged thirty, shot and killed Miss Jessie Newton, daughter of a prominent citizen, and then sent a bullet into his own body. He was expected to recover. Miss Newton was to have been married tonight to Edward O'Donnell, of this city. Frink was a rejected suitor.

Thoroughly Reliable.
Never there was a reliable and safe remedy in that old and famous porous plaster Alcock's has been in use sixty years and as popular today as ever, and we doubt if there is a civilized community on the face of the globe where this wonderful pain-reliever cannot be found. In the selection of the ingredients and in their proportion the greatest care is taken to keep each plaster up to the highest standard of excellence, and so pure and simple are the ingredients that even a child can apply them.

Allcock's are the original and genuine poultice plasters and are sold by druggists in every part of the civilized world.

Stamp of Official Approval.
Washington, Feb. 2.—In unequivocal terms President Roosevelt has officially approved Admiral Davy's acts at Kingston, Jamaica, and in addition requested the secretary of the navy to express to Admiral Davy his hearty commendation of Davy's conduct.

Homack Girl's Suicide.
Madison, Ind., Feb. 8.—Despondent because she could not get her mother in Chicago, Miss Emma Bowhill Phelps, sixteen years old, committed suicide at the home of her uncle in this city, by swallowing carbolic acid.

CASTORIA.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of R. H. Stetson

A Step Backward.

Pekin, Feb. 8.—Four divisions of the Chinese army have been removed from the control of Yuan Shih Kai, government general who is notoriously treacherous. Yuan Shih Kai had succeeded in placing the army in his province of an excellent footing by paying the troops their wages regularly, but it is now believed that this system will be continued under a reactionary Manchu regime.

Waiting a Definition.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 8.—Antonio Valdez, the alleged Mexican revolutionist in jail here under order of deportation, has set up a plea in his appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. He claims he was not charged with treason but claims that it was done in self-defense and does not commit him of moral turpitude. The whole case now hangs upon the definition of moral turpitude by the authorities at Washington.

Japa Welcome in Texas.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—With an invitation to all Japanese on this coast to find homes in Texas, O. Takayama, who claims to have been sent on his mission by Governor Campbell of Texas, Royce, has invited the Japanese residents of Victoria and other seaports to colonize a section near Houston, where he is said to own a farm of 2,000 acres.

Took His Father's Advice.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 8.—Advised by his father, who died last winter, a nineteen-year-old headed gallantly into the criminal court to second degree murder, and was sentenced to ninety-nine years in the penitentiary. He was arraigned January 30 on the charge of having shot and killed Charles Brasses, a saloon porter. The saloon was robed.

Croup can positively be stopped in minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet, pleasant, and safe Syrup, called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for Croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for Croup, that's all. Sold by Severs Drug Company.

Dead Woman Speaks.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 8.—The negroes of Henderson believe the city is being visited by spooks. Several neighbors of Jane Taylor gathered around her to dress her for burial-to-day when their terror she spoke to them. The woman had been pronounced dead the night before and several of her friends watched the corpse Friday night. She is now doing well and will probably recover.

£1 Million to Friend.

Pennsauken, N. J., Feb. 8.—W. F. Herwig, the New Jersey millionaire, who died a few days ago, left more than a million dollars to his friend Martin H. Sullivan, a wealthy lumberman of this city.

Yon Sullivan's Great Victory.
Berlin, Feb. 6.—The rehahiling in the Reichstag elections, which occurred throughout the empire yesterday, emphasized the government victory of Jan. 25. There were further heavy losses in Socialistic votes, while the Socialists made a return to the Reichstag showing of nearly half their strength. The nation has sustained Chancellor Von Buelow emphatically.

Rejected Bullock's Awful Revenge.
Ponca, Ark., Feb. 7.—Frank Frink, a farmer aged thirty, shot and killed Miss Jessie Newton, daughter of a prominent citizen, and then sent a bullet into his own body. He was expected to recover. Miss Newton was to have been married tonight to Edward O'Donnell, of this city. Frink was a rejected suitor.

JAPANESE SAINTS.

The One Most Beloved by the People is Binzuru.

Among the many Buddhist-Shinto saints, whose quaint effigies are set in every conceivable nook and cranny of the Reichstag, one of the most impressive and interesting is the pathetic person called Binzuru. He was once upon a time a member of that strange company of Buddhist disciples known as the "Sixteen Rakan." But one day he fell into grace by remarkable means. The directions of the society which he had espoused from the society of chaste brethren. The great Buddha gave him, in return for all that his worldliness had cost him, power to heal human ills, and to grant the prayers of helpless women who longed to become mothers. He must put outside the temples. He must henceforth sit without, in the midst of the passing throng, and submit himself to personal contact with all that was unclean and unhealthy. The simple-hearted people love him. I think, though, that his wooden images in the temple are not quite suitable objects in all Japan. They give me soft cushion to sit upon, and he is always clothed in quaint little cotton stuff collars and mufflers in all sorts of odd looking colors, and on his head his devotees usually keep a curious Leslie's Weekly.

A Liquid Cold Relief with a Laxative Principle which drives out the cold through a copious action of the bowels, and a healing principle which lingers in the throat and stops the cough—that is Kennedy's Laxative Congre Syrup. Safe and sure in its actions, pleasant to take, and conforms to National Pure Food and Drug Law. Contains no opiate. Sold by all druggists.

A Liquid cold relief with a laxative principle which drives out the cold through a copious action of the bowels, and a healing principle which lingers in the throat and stops the cough—that is Kennedy's Laxative Congre Syrup. Safe and sure in its actions, pleasant to take, and conforms to National Pure Food and Drug Law. Contains no opiate. Sold by all druggists.

HAD FORMED OPINION

Lt. Col. Stevens Not Competent to Sit in Judgment.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 8.—Challenged by the defense as to his competency as a member of the court-martial which is considering the charges against Major General Yuan Shih Kai, who had succeeded in placing the army in his province of an excellent footing by paying the troops their wages regularly, but it is now believed that this system will be continued under a reactionary Manchu regime.

The Yellow Fever Germ

has recently been discovered. It bears a close resemblance to the malaria germ. To free the system from disease germs the most effective remedy is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Guaranteed to cure all diseases due to malaria poison and constipation. 25¢, at Severs Drug Co.

Getting Married.

I don't know myself what getting married feels like, but it cannot be more pleasant than getting married. Other people getting married. Indeed, I always get something like palpitation of the heart just before the priest utters the final fatal words: "I declare you man and wife." Half a second before you were still free, half a second after you were married, half a second before you had only to dash the book from the priest's hands and put your hands over his mouth, and, though this giddily swinging on to the brink of the precipice, you are saved. Half a second after—

At the king's horses and all the king's men. Cannot make you a bachelor again.

It is the knife edge moment between time and eternity.—From Le Gallienne's "Illi Quest of the Golden Girl."

The Name "Fife."

The origin of the name Fife is not known. One historian tries to show that it comes from the Celtic word war, a Pict, and means that the district was originally inhabited by the Picts, a tribe of Celts. Fife was not specially the home of any of the Pictish nations. The tradition that finds greatest favor is related by a monk who states that the first known professor of the district which has since given birth to the kingdom of Fife was Fidius Durus, a famous chieftain whose date is lost in the mists of antiquity.

His Prepared Press.

Sir Josiah Mason was according to his biography, walking in Bull street, Birmingham, in the year 1828 when he saw some steel pens, price 2s. 6d. each. Josiah was a hard up maker of split rings. No sooner had he seen the pens than he went home, made some better than those he had seen, sent them to London and got a later order by return. At thirty years of age Mason's capital was 30 shillings. At sixty he had given away £400,000.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY

Friday—Appropriations for rivers and harbors continued to occupy the attention of the house. In the senate many bills of minor importance were passed, one increasing the salaries of city and county officers, another raising $100,000, with an annual increase of $100 until $1,200 is reached. Another bill increases the pension of Indian war survivors from $5 to $10 per month. The senate paid tribute to the memory of Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland.

Saturday—The senate had under consideration the Indian appropriation bill, while the house was engrossed in a discussion of the rivers and harbors bill. Upon announcement of the death of Representative William H. Flack of New York, early adjournment was taken in both houses.

Sunday—The house passed a number of important bills, including the Missouri Compromise bill, the omnibus lightning bill, carrying $1,373,500 and the omnibus revenue cutter bill, and concurred in the senate amendments to the urgent deficiency bill lending the Jamestown expedition $1,000,000 and safeguarding the sum $1,000,000 and the senate voted to appropriate $1,000,000 for the same. The senate concurred in perfecting the commerce bill permitting the government to take an appeal on points of law in certain criminal cases. The bill is intended to reach cases similar to that against the meat packers.

Tuesday—The senate spent the entire day in considering the river and harbor appropriation bill, amounting $1,750,000, was reported. General debate on the rivers and harbors appropriation bill was concluded in the house.

Wednesday—The advocates of a fourteen-foot channel for the Mississippi river from Chicago to St. Louis and the gulf met defeat in the senate, the house, having under consideration the river and harbor appropriation bill, voted to stand by the recommendation of the committee in opposition to the project. The Indian appropriation bill was again the sole topic of discussion by the senate.

Thursday—The house passed the bill amending the act relating to the withdrawal from circulation, of one of the best beverages or liquid medicinal uses by mixture with suitable denaturing materials. The river and harbor appropriation bill, carrying more than $83,000,000, was passed. The senate was further engaged in discussing the Indian appropriation bill.

Ho Ho Naps at The Bentley Home.

A few evenings ago after supper, Mr. and Mrs. Bentley went up in town on a shopping errand, leaving at home the children, leaving them alone, and a large bright boy in their room, and this was too much of a temptation for a Weary Willie, who entered, pulled off his shoes and hat, turned down the light, and wrapped up in a shawl lying near and quietly reposed on the warm couch nearby, where he slept until the return of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley. The children were sleeping in another room. When Mr. Bentley returned and lit the light His Honor the Willie, saluted him with a very kindly and familiar "Hello." Mr. Bentley asked him if he wasn't afraid to enter a strange house in that manner, but the boy replied that it was important and looked necessary for him to stop somewhere, and he saw no reason to pass such a tempestuous place. Mr. Bentley attempted to hurry the wanderer off on his exit, but he would be prodded. He quietly dressed, warmed his shoes and reluctantly departed.—Hans cock Clinton.

A Hearing Open.

The Rev. J. C. Warren, pastor of Sharon Baptist Church, Belair, Ga., says of Electric Bitters: "It's a godsend to mankind. It cured me of lame back, stiff joints, and complete physical collapse. I was so weak it took me half an hour to walk a mile. Two bottles of Electric Bitters have made me strong. I have just walked three miles in 50 minutes and feel like walking three more. It's made a new man of me." Greatly relieved for weakness and all stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints. Sold under guarantee at Severs Drug Co. Price 50c.

Paul Seay Honored.

Paul H. Seay, the fifteen year old son of Rev. J. B. Seay, of Roberts, Ky., is honored by the St. Louis Advocate by publishing a somewhat lengthy article from his pen on the subject of Temperance and its benefits to the nation. Having had Paul in our class we are not surprised at the recognition he is receiving from editors and others.—Central Methodist.

Run-down People

NEED VINOL

the modern strength creator and body builder

Many people right here in this vicinity are all run down and hardly able to drag about—don't know what all these things are.

Such people need Vinol, our cod liver preparation without oil, which contains in a highly concentrated creating element of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod's livers, but from which the useless oil is eliminated and taste added.

We have many men, women and child in this vicinity who are run down, tired and debilitated to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails.

Severs Drug Co.

Some Hints of Spring Colors.

For the spring season, says a New York special, the leading colors are to be yellow and tan, in the opinion of garment-makers. They have already received an encouraging reception from any who have been wearing them in coats and dresses in warm weather.

Complete costumes are to be worn to a greater extent for summer than for several years and this has occasioned considerable filling in by cutters-up in high-grade cloths.

For street wear in large cities and for formal dress in summer resorts the proper garments for spring will be solid color styles in the lightest materials. This has placed the pinstripe and voile in the lead, and they are only exceeded in yardage by the chiffon broadcloths. All makers of cloaks and suits who have been able to get the material, report a steady re-order business on Southern tourist goods, including suits and coats.

At present in all showrooms in this market the full display of spring outer garments is being made. Elaborate lace collars and evening wraps are conspicuous in the showings and silk coats are also making a decided place for themselves for spring and summer. The strictly tailored suits are not moving Nothing will relieve indigestion that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol digests what you eat and allows the stomach to rest—recuperate—grow strong again. Kodol is a scission of digestive acids and as nearly as possible approximates the digestive fluid that are found in the stomach. Kodol takes the work of the stomach and the work itself does greatly assist the stomach to a thorough rest. In addition the ingredients of Kodol are such as to make it a corrective of the highest efficiency and by its action the stomach is restored to its normal activity and power. Kodol is manufactured in strict conformity with the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by all druggists.

The News executes only the best in job work. Give us your orders for anything in the printing line.

First State Bank, IRVINGTON, KY.

W. J. PIGGOTT, President, JOHN R. WIMP, Vice-President
J. H. KEMPER, Cashier

Accounts of Corporations, Firms and Individuals solicited.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Read This Ad.

You will need the Stock we are advertising soon. A late Spring means more teams. Get it now, it is cheaper, and you have more to pick from.

Three Horses, will sell, worth the money, or trade for cattle.

One Bay Mare, blind in one eye, will sell or trade for cattle.

One Pair coming two-year-old Mules, (good ones).

One Pair coming three-year-old Mules, (horses).

One Pair four-year-old Mules (horses) extra good.

One Pair aged Mules, Wagon and Harness, for sale cheap.

We still have the Jack and Stallions advertised. If you wish either write at once.

Beard Bros. HARDINSBURG, KY.

THE FINEST CATALOGUE

Born trained by a commercial school will be sent upon request to teachers and others who are interested in a Commercial and Industrial Education.

Our catalogue contains 60 pages of fine illustrations, including photographs, maps, sketches, drawings, and diagrams, fine engravings, etc., of the building, faculty, students, scenes of Louisville, Ky., its industries, etc., and the leading educational institutions and parks that surround our beautiful city. It will be sent to any address in Louisville or elsewhere.

This book will enable you to decide between good and worthless commercial schools. Send for a free copy today.

BRYANT & STRATTON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Louisville, Ky.

THOS. W. DRYDEN, President.

GOE. W. SCHWARTZ, Sec. and Treas.

OPPORTUNITY.

A Good Investment.

I have for sale

Two store houses—one new,

Dwelling house,

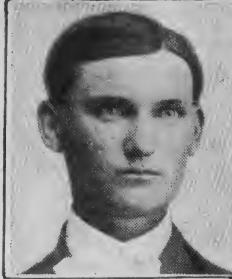

6 1-2 acres nice orchard—fine fruit.

Will sell or will put in $1,000 cash with a good man to run a general store.

W. N. PATE.

Mattingly, Ky.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA

MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON.

At Work on the Farm and Feeling Well All the Time.

Geo. H. Thompson, Craft, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicine, Peruna and Manalin. I had been affected with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every Spring and Summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did not do me any good. I took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had come to where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pain, however, but in night time could not do anything. I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 128 pounds, but after taking several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 166 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."

Peruna is a Systemic Remedy.

"It is equally efficient for catarrh in one place, it will be equally potent in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy."

The people generally are very much interested in Peruna.

Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat; lately it sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bowels. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

Peruna because these organs are not subject to a change, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

MR. W. J. TEMPLE.

Climatic Aliments Overcome By Pe-ru-na

Mr. W. J. Temple, R. F. D. 8, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather.

About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

"One doctor called it incarceration of the bowels; another called it colitis.

Another doctor helped me temporarily.

"Then a druggist recommended

Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man.

"Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can do farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider

Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market.

"I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna.

I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

Chronic Catarrh of Head and Throat Lasted Thirty Years.

A Letter Praising Pe-ru-na.

MR. J. B. ALEXANDER.

Mr. Gustav Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year. About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind. You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you enjoy a long life to help suffering humanity!"

DR. HARTMAN, THE FARMER.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, the inventor and original manufacturer of Peruna, is one of the best farmers in the Middle West.

His farm comprises several thousand acres of the best land in the State of Ohio, located near the City of Columbus.

As an importer of French Percheron and German Cob horses, the Doctor is well known throughout the country.

The farm-raising department is a marvel of ingenuity, and perfection;

but, perhaps, the dairy department is where the Doctor shows his greatest sense of order and sanitary science.

His milk cows, of the purest Jersey blood, are all now subjected to the thiurin test, and are given to the City of Columbus a pure milk, certified by the Board of Health.

The milk stables, the milk men and the whole process of milking are absolutely faultless and clean.

The Doctor himself, past 70 years of age, is the managing head of the farm.

He himself supervises the working details of every department.

He is a model of strength and vitality, and since Peruna is the only remedy he ever makes personal use of, his physical condition is a testimonial to the efficacy of Peruna of greater value than could be found in any book.

Dr. Hartman is one of the few doctors who take their own medicine and his splendid physique and strength in his old age are an eloquent argument for Peruna very difficult to gainsay.

Dr. Hartman, being a farmer himself, knows what the farmer needs and in speaking of Peruna to the farmer he speaks from a man's point of view.

Peruna For Bowel Troubles.

Mr. Stanly Bell, Ashley, Ohio, writes:

"I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly that it was painful for me to move.

I took two or three bottles of Peruna when I began to feel better.

The Doctor himself, past 70 years of age, is the managing head of the farm.

He advised all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."

71 Years Old and Able to Work.

Mr. John G. Hether, Garfield, Kan., writes:

"I was injured by a fall on the railroad and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless.

After trying Peruna and after using it for three months was entirely well.

I am 71 years old and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

Pe-ru-na a Household Remedy.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Estey, Mich., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail. I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured."

"I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."

One of Dr. Hartman's Grateful Correspondents.

Mr. W. R. Calahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and prominent fruit grower and cattle raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my cordial thanks to you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all. My head, joints, and all my vital body aches, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good. I had almost given up.

"I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the medicine my appetite came to me and my head and joints all better. In fact, I was all right all over. Peruna cured me."

While Peruna is not confined to any one class of people, yet it is probably true that the farming class more than any other, rely upon Peruna for the prevention and cure of all climatic diseases.

IRVINGTON.

Miss Nellie Smith spent Saturday and Sunday in Guston the guest of Miss Emma Neff.

Mrs. Nora Board and children; and mother, Mrs. Nannie Henderson, will arrive this week from Cedar Town, Georgia, where they have been the guests of Mrs. Jack Corley.

Miss Nellie and Emma Moorman, of Glendale, came last week for an indefinite visit to Mrs. E. E. Dempster.

Mrs. Eli Wilson, of West Point, spent Saturday in town the guest of relatives.

Miss Florrie Hardin, after being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kemper, left for Holt Friday.

Miss Lillie McGlothian returned from Louisville Saturday where she had been several days shopping.

Go to McGlothian and Piggott for all kinds of seeds, the very best kind that is in the market.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with water and let it stand over night. If a sediment or sediment settles, this indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. If it stains your water, there is evidence of kidney trouble; less frequent urine to indicate it or if the urine is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the only remedy found full every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney trouble, liver, bladder and heart, and the urinary passage. It corrects inability to sleep, relieves pain in passing urine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the night. It will shorten the ordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful curative powers.

If you need a medicine that should stand the most disreputable name, it is here. Sold by druggists in 50c, and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful remedy sent to you free by mail.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Don't make any mistake; remember the same, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y., is on every bottle.

Dan Dhomou was the guest of John Board Sunday.

Miss Dore Funk has been visiting her uncle, C. H. Land, at Garnettville.

A Farmer's Club was organized at Brandenburg Monday with R. A. Hamilton, of Flaherty, as president and A. W. Moreman, of Brandenburg, as secretary.

The next meeting will be held first Monday in March. This club will be a great benefit to the farmers of Meade County.

Dr. Hardesty, of Paynesville, came up Friday with others whose names we failed to learn, to look at his farm.

The house known as the Eph. Wimp house was burned Friday night. Styles Lampkin was living it at the time of the burning.

Prof. Busham closed his school here and for several days before the alleged murder of the said Catherine Bryant, absent from this state and a fugitive from justice.

In view of the facts and the further fact that we are firmly and decidedly of the opinion that he is criminally responsible for the murder of the said Catherine Bryant, and that his arrest and punishment for said crime cannot be accomplished without the aid of your excellency, we, therefore, ask that you offer a reward of $750 or some other like sum for the arrest of said Lampton and his delivery to the officers of this Commonwealth to the end that the courts of the State may make inquiry into the above charge, now pending against him.

THE TEXAS WONDER

Cures all Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatic troubles; sold by all druggists, or two months treatment by mail for $1. Dr. E. W. Hall, 3226 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. Send for Kentucky testimonials.

Evelyn Thaw a Girlish Figure.

A more girlish figure than that which adorned Evelyn Thaw, of Cincinnati, is scarcely imaginable. She wore a loose jacket of dark blue, such as many a schoolgirl wears, and a dark hat of childish cut decorated with a bunch of violets. About her neck she wore a wide turned collar of a modified Little Lord Fauntleroy design and a soft lawn tie of black tied in a bow. Her hair, while not hanging loosely down her back, was half caught up and tied with a black ribbon in a sort of pug at the back of her neck.

The court room saw her without a veil for the first time since the trial began. There was disclosed a pretty face, small of feature but regular in cut, a pair of large black eyes, very soft and very pleading, a pair of straight eyebrows of heaviest black, a mouth large but not unpleasing, whose lips parted to disclose two rows of very white teeth.—New York Sun.

Nasal Catarrh, an inflammation of the delicate membrane lining the air-passages, is not cured by any mixture taken into the stomach. Don't waste time on them. Take Ely's Cream Balm through the nostrils, so that the fevered, swollen tissues are reached at once. Never mind how long you have suffered nor how long you have been disappointed, we know Ely's Cream Balm will cure you if has cured others by the thousand.

Ali druggists, 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, safe, sure.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers, safe, sure.